The Premier has reacted angrily to footage showing a man wearing a generic premier badge being arrested outside an Adelaide hotel. Phillip Hart said he was in Adelaide for an Open Government meeting and had not been aware of the film. "I've been kept in the dark. I'm still trying to figure out what's going on," he said. "I've still got my children here. I've still got a job. I'm not prepared to have a sitting duck premier portrayed on the front of a DVD." "I'm very surprised, but yet again, Adelaide and the South Australian Government is being singled out as being different than other States," he said. Police say a man in his 40s was arrested for an offence relating to open contravention of an alcohol-related restriction. The man was taken into custody at 12.30pm and released on a notice to appear at the Adelaide Magistrates Court.Q: Charts on a blog? I'm in the planning stage of a new site design for my blog and am having some trouble deciding on the most appropriate charting package. The design will consist of a blog with individual articles using a series of segments. Each segment represents a specific topic and within each segment, there is a sub-topic that represents the articles within that segment. The charts I've looked at most closely include: Chart.js d3.js Both work great for data in tables, but neither seems to support "scrolling" between grouped sets of data, such as each sub-topic/segment
